Objective of the event	Examine if Indian local election voters prioritize candidates' personality and grassroots connect (face) or party ideology and symbols (flag), using recent outcomes like Kerala 2025 locals to track shifting behavior.

Key event outcomes	Key Outcomes 2. Balance of Face and Flag: Strong local governance needs both capable leaders and solid party support—relying on one weakens delivery and accountability. 3. Grassroots Leadership: Honest, active local leaders build trust and solve daily issues. 4. Party Role: Parties offer stability, resources, ideology, and coordination for effective governance. 5. System Challenges: Coalitions, defections, and low voter awareness prioritize wins over performance. 6. Voting Reform: Voters must weigh competence and ideology; reforms should favor ability over electability.

Objective of the event	Discussing how caste affect social demographic
Brief description of the said event (100 words or more)	This kind of discussion usually revolves around the tension between social justice and social cohesion. The phrase "Beyond the 50% Cap" refers to debates about whether reservations or affirmative action quotas in education, jobs, or politics should exceed 50%. Introducing a social demographic census adds another layer: it could provide precise data on caste, class, religion, or community representation, but it also raises questions about identity politics and national unity.
